Money-Raising Movie Planned By Men's Group

Sponsoring a movie, painting house numbers and writing letters about LSU-S expansion are among the projects planned by Circle K, men's service organization.

As a fund-raising project, Circle K will sponsor a well-known movie in a local theater, according to John Gianforte, second vice president.

Sell Tickets

Members will sell tickets for $1.50 a person, on campus, door to door and at the theater box office. Also, the club will award a door prize of 10 free movie passes, Gianforte said. Additional details will be available later, he continued.

The club will sponsor the movie to raise money for the Circle K District Convention, to be held April 16-18 in Biloxi, Miss., said Bill Michaels, president.

Another fund-raising campaign is painting house numbers for Shreveport-Bossier residents.

A current service project is that of trying to make LSU-S a four-year school.

LSU-S Expansion

According to Gianforte, club members have written letters to legislators and to local businessmen, trying to interest them in LSU-S expansion.

Also, several members recently put up signs along highways between Shreveport and Baton Rouge, promoting the project. Gianforte said the club will send a Western Union telegram, signed by local merchants, to various legislators' offices.

Circle K is also involved in a membership drive, said Michaels. Men interested in joining the organization may attend meetings, held each Wednesday at 6 p.m. in Sci. 118.

Honor Society To Initiate 22

Alpha Sigma Omicron, LSU-S' honor society, will initiate 21 students and one faculty member tonight at 6:30 in the Science Lecture Auditorium.

Requirements for membership include a 3.5 grade point average for one semester and an overall 3.3 grade point average. Members are also selected on the basis of honor, character and leadership.

To be initiated are Becky C. Ball, Frank N. Birdsell, Debra E. Branch, Deborah D. Brown, George W. Cowart, Diane E. Dare, Doris R. Ebersole, Debbie L. Guess, Ann M. Guillot and Christine M. Harville.

Geoffrey L. Hays, Joyce A. Hollingsworth, Jennie R. Lacobee, Pamela G. Lewis, Robert E. Lyon, Marcia A. McIntosh, James D. Moss, Jr., Carol P. Petersen, Michael W. Phelan and Dannie C. Rimmer.

Mayor L. Calhoun Allen, Jr. will be guest speaker.

The second session of Books and Libraries will begin Monday, March 29, for sections 21, 22 and 23 and Tuesday, March 30, for sections 24 and 25, according to Mrs. Mattie Mosley, books and libraries instructor.

Pollution Control Authority Will Speak on March 18

Dr. Philip W. West, director of the Institute for Environmental Sciences and Boyd professor of chemistry at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, will speak on air pollution Thursday, March 18, in the Science Lecture Auditorium.

The program, sponsored jointly by the LSU Foundation and by the LSU-S Chemistry Club, will be presented at two different times.

"Toxic and Carcinogenic Compounds in the Atmosphere" will be the topic of the 3 p.m. lecture, which is primarily for LSU-S faculty and students. A program for area high school students will be held at 7 p.m.

Department Faculty

West will speak about "Analytical Chemistry in the Undergraduate Curricula" to the Chemistry Department faculty at 1 p.m.

According to Dale Magill, club president, Dr. West is noted for his research on the environmental problems of air and water pollution, and has written 140 articles and two books on the analytical aspects of chemistry.

He is a member and past president of the Analytical Chemistry Division of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry.

A consultant on air pollution for the World Health Organization and the U.S. Public Health Service, he is a member of the Consultative Committee to the European Common Market.

Outstanding Chemist

Dr. West was voted the Outstanding Chemist of the Southwest in 1954 and is an honorary member of the Midland Society for Analytical Chemistry in England, Magill said.

A current project of the Chemistry Club is the sale of the Chemical Rubber Co. (CRC) handbook of Chemistry and Physics.

Magill said the books are being sold by members of the club for $10 each.

Plowshare, Antique Rifle Shown in Library Exhibit

An agriculture exhibit is currently being displayed in the lobby area of the library. The display, which will be featured until April 13, shows the development of agriculture in the United States. According to Mrs. Dorcas McCormick, senior librarian, the exhibit includes such objects as a iron plowshare, several types of barbed wire and an antique rifle.

Dr. John G. Hall, assistant professor of agriculture, said it was these three objects—the plowshare, the barbed wire and rifle—that made the development of agriculture in the American West unique.

Art Exhibit

Presently located in the reference section of the library is an art exhibit by students who took Fine Arts 11, art structure, which introduces the fundamentals of art in two and three dimensional design and the use of various media. Some of the media included are pencil, pen and ink, pastels, acrylics, collages, sand casts and assemblage.

A collection of Folio Society books are located in the browsing room section of the library. According to Mrs. K. Stone, senior librarian, these books usually have a beautiful binding and contain several illustrations.

Study Trip to Canada, Mexico Offered by LSU- Baton Rouge

Applications are now being accepted for Louisiana State University's summer study trips to Quebec and Mexico City.

The trips, sponsored by the LSU foreign languages department, will enable students to learn French and Spanish in their natural environments as well as to understand the customs of the people who speak the languages.

Quebec Trip

The Quebec trip will be limited to 30 persons who have completed 10 or more semester hours of college French or three or four years of high school French. All participants must enroll in the LSU summer session.

Students will fly from New Orleans to Montreal, June 7, and travel to Quebec by bus. They will return to New Orleans on August 6.

In Quebec, students will reside with French Canadian families and will attend classes at the University of Laval, founded in 1765 in the oldest and most picturesque part of the city. They may take from three to seven semester hours of credit in a variety of French courses.

Cost of the trip will be approximately $495 and will include round trip transportation to Quebec, room and two meals a day in the city and several excursions and cultural activities.

Mexico Trip

The Mexico study trip, scheduled June 8 to August 5, is open to persons with at least three semester hours of college Spanish or two years of high school Spanish. Participants must enroll in the summer session.

Students will reside in private homes and attend classes at the Mexico City Center of Bilingual Studies. In addition to visits to libraries, museums, theaters, palaces, bullfights and soccer matches, there will be day-long excursions to points of interest in central Mexico.

Participants may earn from three to eight semester hours of credit at LSU.

Overall cost of the trip is $435 and includes transportation by jet from New Orleans to Mexico City, lodging and three meals a day and the planned excursions.

Students in both the French and Spanish trips will be responsible for personal expenses and LSU summer semester fees.

DAR Zigler Foundation Trophy Awarded to Hubert Humphreys

Hubert Humphreys, assistant professor of history, has been awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution Zigler Foundation Trophy as the outstanding American history teacher in north-west Louisiana. He was awarded the trophy on the basis of his academic achievements.

Humphreys received his B.S. degree from Louisiana State University in 1950, his M.Ed. degree in educational psychology from the University of Texas in 1953 and his M.A. degree in history from LSU in 1964. He has also been the recipient of several advanced studies grants including a Coe Foundation Grant for study at Tulane University in 1957, a Stanford Institute of American History Grant for study at Stanford University in 1959 and an Asian Foundation Grant for study at Long Island University in 1960.

In addition to his LSU-S teaching duties, Humphreys is president of the North Louisiana Historical Association and chairman of the Student Publications Committee. He has written several articles for historical publications, one entitled "In a Sense Experimental — the Civilian Conservation Corps in Louisiana," which was published in "The Louisiana History Magazine."

Biology Club Candy Sale Raises Money

Douglas Reagan, a graduate student working on his Ph.D. at the University of Arkansas, will speak this afternoon at the Biology Club's special meeting, on the ecology of the box turtle, Terrapene carolina. Reagan is a herpetologist and is a personal friend of Dr. Laurence Hardy, assistant professor of biological sciences and club sponsor.

The club is now selling 7 ounce candy pecan logs to raise money for the club's spring trip to Colorado. The candy is being sold for $1 per bar by all club members and may also be purchased in the Biology Department, according to Mrs. Dorothy Hubble, assistant professor of biological sciences and club sponsor.

At the March 10 meeting, Dr. Leslie Turk, a local dermatologist, spoke about the brown recluse spider. Dr. Turk was one of two Shreveport men who did research on the brown recluse.

THERE WAS MORE at the Student Government dance Saturday night than met the eye. Debbie Shelton was one of the estimated 300 persons who attended the dance.

In the Middle

By DON MOSS

The truth hurts, but not half as bad as the absence of truth.

All of the bombings, all of the riots, all of the radical and reactionary rhetoric of recent vintage has presupposed the existence of a "Revolution" which quite honestly does not exist. And all of the hilarious antics of Jerry Rubin, Abbie Hoffman, Spiro Agnew and J. Edgar Hoover haven't created, in the former cases, or destroyed, in the latter cases, that phantasm.

However, those guileful children of the Weather and the Democratic Society laboring busily within their collective delusion of cleansing violence and radical overthrow of the government are seriously endangering the rest of us unenlightened, plodding students by their actions.

Last week the corridors of the Capitol building in Washington contained, not legislators, but the echoes produced by exploding dynamite. Perhaps the building did not groan—I am certain the lovers of a free society did. Next week the corridors of the Capitol building in Washington will probably contain armed guards, dogs, secret cameras and microphones and very few visitors. Next week the chambers of Congress may very well contain scared, outraged legislators intent on preventing a similar incident in the Capitol, and, more pointedly, in the nation.

Nothing kills intellectual fascination with the concepts of revolution and justified violence more surely than the realization of those concepts, and the threat of personal violence.

Evidently, some Congressmen got the message conveyed by the bombing. Those legislators who have previously been willing to tacitly support certain instances of, for example, campus violence and vociferously condemn other instances less popular with students, were strikingly, painfully silent immediately after that explosive reminder that they too are part of the revolutionary target.

I can only hope calm, considered opinion guides Capitol Hill reactions to last week's bombing. And we must all fervently hope that any forthcoming legislation against radical acts of violence and revolution makes the very real distinction between such violent acts and peaceful protest.

Americans must retain their rights to speak and write freely, to gather peacefully, to dissent politically and to live privately.

Reader Reveals Nixon 'Quotes' Belong to Agnew

Dear Editor,

I find it odd that Don Moss would attribute some of the "imminently quotable goodies" to President Nixon in his column, "In the Middle." (sic) It seems that Time, Newsweek, various newspapers, and the radio and television media let it be known that "effete snobs" and "nattering nabobs of negativism" came from Vice President Agnew's remarks.

Speech and Hearing Students Initiate Community Service

Members of Sigma Alpha, the Speech and Hearing Club, are now doing volunteer work for Caddo Parish Speech and Hearing Services and Special Education as a community service, according to Mrs. Joan Harrington, speech instructor and club sponsor.

Sigma Alpha members are working more than 16 hours a week as assistants to Mrs. Litha Brady, speech pathologist, Mrs. Nancy Alexander, teacher of deaf oral classes and Mrs. Joyce Posey, principal of Caddo Schol for Exceptional Children.

Ten speech and hearing students are working in the program at Caddo Heights Elementary, South Highlands Elementary, Sunset Acres Elementary and Caddo Exceptional schools.

Attend Convention

The club recently attended the Sigma Alpha Eta convention held at the Prince Murat Inn in Baton Rouge, March 1-2. The convention marked the 18th Annual Conference on Speech and Hearing Disorders.

Those attending were Deborah Betts, Becky Fulghum, Jerry Whisenhunt, Becky Tuggle and Jack Bryant. The students were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Pat Harrington.

The convention was attended by over 400 persons, mostly students, according to Mrs. Harrington.

Named Chairman

Mrs. Harrington was named chairman of the recruitment committee of the Louisiana Speech and Hearing Association at the convention. As chairman, she will be responsible for getting students interested in joining the LSHA.

The executive board members of the LSHA indicated that they were interested in the work of the Speech and Hearing Club on our campus, according to Mrs. Harrington.

Parkway Paper Staff Visits Almagest Office

Four staff members of the Parkway High School Panther's Print interested in observing the creation of a college newspaper recently visited the staff office of the LSU-S Almagest.

Along with Barbara Brown, Parkway speech and journalism instructor, the four are Sandy Martin, assistant editor; Mike Fuller, editorial writer; and Pam Murphey and Gloria Ludwig, reporters.

The visitors were present as the Almagest staff labored to put their bi-weekly publication "to bed" on schedule.

FACULTY NEWS

Mrs. Lillene Herring, biological science instructor, and Mrs. Dorothy Hubble, assistant professor of biological sciences, will participate as judges at the Caddo Parish Science Fair today and tomorrow.

Attends Mardi Gras

Dr. Frank E. Collins, Jr., assistant professor of chemistry, recently attended the fourth annual Mardi Gras symposium on organic chemistry at LSU in Baton Rouge. One of the lectures was given by Dr. Charles G. Overberger, former president of the American Chemical Society.

Judges at Fair

Conway Merrett and Charles D. Smith, math instructors, will be judges at the Caddo Parish Fair today and tomorrow at the "Vacationland" building on the fairgrounds. Today's competition is from 3-6 p.m.

The fair is divided into four sections of grade levels 1-3, 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12. The five categories being judged are the applied, biological, chemical, mathematical and physical sciences.

Study Abroad

Albert Riusech, Spanish and French instructor, recently attended a meeting of the Louisiana Foreign Language Teachers Association, at LSU-Eunice.

He said the main purpose of the meeting was to gather university and college professors together in order to gain their support for the Council of Development of French in Louisiana.

This program, known as CODOFIL, is backed by the state legislature, and stresses the importance of study abroad. Its main goal is to perform permanent organization among the institute of higher learning to help guide its educational policies.

Riusech added that CODOFIL is presently promoting the Jounquiere College Program in Canada for summer study. It is subsidized by the government of Quebec, Canada.

Home Ec Conference

Mrs. Ann Terzia, fine arts instructor, recently attended a home economics convention of the 33rd Conference of Louisiana Colleges and Universities in Baton Rouge. The main speeches dealt with the use of neon for sculpture, and the modern media processes of art.

Mrs. Terzia is art chairman for the Louisiana Home Economics Association convention being held in Baton Rouge March 19-20. The theme is "The impact of the change in families in the 70's." Professor of Interior Design at the main campus, Vincent Guaccero, will also be on the program.

Convention in South

Dr. Lillian Hall, assistant professor of speech, recently attended a convention of the Speech Communication Association of America in New Orleans. This was the first time in 36 years the association has met in the South.

Dr. Hall is also presently serving as a member of the board of directors for the Shreveport Theatre Guild, a branch of the American Education Theatre. She said future plans are to establish outdoor drama for Shreveport which would give employment to college students.

Member of Panel

Dr. George A. Kemp, associate professor of psychology, served as a member of an accreditation panel held at the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette March 3-6 to evaluate the teacher-education program there.

Other members of the panel were Dr. John L. Garrett, dean of the College of Education at LSU in Baton Rouge, Dr. B. J. Collinsworth, dean of the School of Education at Louisiana Tech, Dr. Clarence E. Golemon, dean of Graduate Studies at Southeastern Louisiana State University and Dr. Don T. Lyons, professor of education at McNeese State Universtiy.

Dr. James DeLee, director of Teacher Education and Certification in the State Department of Education coordinated the activities of the group during the evaluation. The evaluation, required periodically to maintain standards of excellence, was guided by the "Louisiana Standards for Accrediting Teacher-Education Institutions," according to Dr. Kemp.

Narcissus Deadline

The deadline for submitting literary works to the "Narcissus," the LSU-S literary magazine, is Friday, March 19. Manuscripts may be taken to Dr. May McBride's office, Lib. 257.

Announcement

The Almagest accepts all letters to the editor for possible publication. In general, the letters must be signed and in good taste if serious consideration is expected. We welcome constructive remarks but have not time for the inane.

DEMONSTRATING SOME OF THE principles he has learned in karate is John Gianforte, freshman marine biology major. He has been taking the course for about three months and has earned a white belt.

Improved Stamina, Concentration Fringe Benefits of Karate Class

By ALISON CRENSHAW

Imagine you are walking down a deserted street late at night and someone jumps out at you. What would you do?

According to John Gianforte, freshman marine biology major, one solution is to use karate, a Japanese method of self-defense.

"With karate, you have the ability to fight, you know how to take care of yourself in any situation, but you don't want to fight," he said.

Gianforte has been taking lessons for about three months and says he thinks everyone can benefit by studying karate.

Improves Concentration

"It builds physical stamina, improves your powers of concentration and gives you the satisfaction of knowing you can defend yourself if the need arises," he said.

Conducting the classes is Pat Harrington, who holds a first-degree black belt in karate. His wife, Mrs. Joan Harrington, is a speech and psychology instructor at LSU-S.

Gianforte has earned his first belt and said he plans to try to earn others.

Harrington's daughter, Doll, a senior at St. Vincent's Academy, said there are five different belts with various degrees in each category.

Kyus Comprise Belts

In the first four belts are eight degrees, or kyus, she said. The eighth and seventh kyus make up the white belt, the sixth comprises the green belt, the fifth and fourth, the purple belt and the third, second and first, the brown belt.

The six degrees in the black belt are called dans, with the first dan being the highest, she said.

The karate class, affiliated with the All-South Karate Federation, is regularly visited by the regional director, Billy Golden, who tests class members and presents them with their belts.

Honored in Japan

The class is also affiliated with the Japan Karate Federation, meaning the belts earned in the local course are honored in Japan, Gianforte said.

Classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday night in the gym of St. John's School, 947 Jordan St., from 8 to 8:30. The entry fee is $15 and

"1776" Brings Incessant Praise from Viewers

By GERRY HOLLAND

America's award-winning musical, "1776," (Drama Critics Award) giving two sell-out performances at Shreveport's Civic Theater, Feb. 21, brought roars of applause from its viewers and incessant praise from local critics.

Depicting the events leading up to the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the show starred Don Perkins as John Adams, Paul Tripp as Benjamin Franklin, Patrick Hines as John Dickinson and Gary Beach as Edward Rutledge. Described as an "exceptional one-night stand" by Shreveport Journal Amusements Editor Lane Crockett, it captured the attention of the audience for the entire 2½ hour performance, which had no intermission.

Extremely witty and clever, the show was appealing to all age groups, being a pleasant blend of entertainment and cultural history. Citizens of Shreveport should give a "pat on the back" to the Shreveport Civic Opera, under whose auspices the play came here, and should definitely encourage the coming of more such plays to the city.

Cards, Games Bought by SGA

The Student Government Association has purchased pinochle, poker and rook cards which can be checked out in the Snack Shack from Mr. J. V. Dark, bookstore clerk. Also purchased were one chess set and two domino sets.

Any student checking out cards or games will be responsible for any damage done to them while they are checked out, according to Jerry Whisenhunt, chairman of the activities committee.

The SGA-sponsored spring dance was held March 6 at the Progressive Men's Club from 8-12 p.m. "Spilled Wine" played at the dance.

The crisis film, "Multiply and Subdue the Earth," will be shown at noon Wednesday, March 31 and at 12:15 p.m. Thursday, April 1. "Shenandoah" will be shown Friday and Saturday, March 26-27, at 7 p.m.

SHOWN (LEFT) RELAXING IN THE Snack Shack and (right) trying to hurry the building of the fountains is sophomore Lynda Breitschopf, ALMAGEST Girl of the Month. An elementary education major from Bossier, Lynda says she plans to teach first graders because "they're so cute; I hope I still think so when I'm teaching them." She says she likes "just about everything" and lists sewing and playing football as her hobbies.

Alison's Lights

By ALISON CRENSHAW

According to a popular saying, the difficulty in life is the choice. This week, students apparently seem to be facing the dilemma of "what to do."

Students at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge may not have a yearbook after this year.

Random Survey

The Student Government Association recently commissioned a random survey conducted by three graduate students to determine whether the students wanted to continue to pay for the yearbook (the Gumbo) in the same method, (by allocating funds from the student activity fee) whether they wanted to make purchasing the book optional or whether they had any interest at all in buying the Gumbo. (Over half of the students interviewed wanted to purchase it at their option—remember? If you don't, re-read my last column.)

The SGA is planning a "straw vote" in April to determine whether action should be taken to change the methods of paying for the yearbook, but a final determination on the fate of the Gumbo and its funds will be postponed until fall registration.

"To create a more natural life situation in men's housing," chief counselor Bob Downing has announced that guidelines for weekend parties in men's dorms will soon be formulated at LSU-Baton Rouge.

Replaces Second Sunday

This plan, allowing women to visit in the men's dorms, will replace the unsuccessful "second Sunday program." The former plan allowed female guests from 2 to 4 p.m. on the second Sunday of each month.

The proposed regulation will make it mandatory that a program be planned before women will be allowed in the dormitories.

Women's Liberationists at LSU-Baton Rouge recently picketed two "stag" movie houses in Baton Rouge as a protest against the theaters' "for men only" policy.

According to The Daily Reveille, the campus newspaper, the owner of one theater "laughed the protest off, offered the pickets coffee and doughnuts when they arrived and thanked them for their free advertisement when they left."

Journalism Interns

Members of two journalism classes at Northeast Louisiana University are working as "interns" at local television stations and newspapers this semester.

This program gives the students a practical knowledge of journalism. (Good idea!)

I'll end this week with a definition which I'm sure will be beneficial to everyone (?) Good breeding consists in concealing how much we think of ourselves and how little we think of the other person. Happy St. Patrick's Day.

In Darkness Does The Demon Tread

By MICHAEL LEWIS

In darkness does the demon tread
Where I do walk alone in dread
I fear his might, his awesome pow'r
In tears I live my final hour.

Upon me, who, this curse has cast
That I should soon be of the past?
Who could for me with hate be filled
That conjure it that I be killed?
Alas, too late, the time has come
The demon's task has now begun.
All symbols burned, he marches on,
By Satan blessed, I must be gone.
I turn at hearing moanings loud;
He issues forth from fiery cloud;
My time allowed now comes to pass
Toward me floats the burning mass.
Into my eyes with death he stares,
And claws and fangs and wings he bears,

Heed me, soon I will be dead
In darkness does the demon tread.

Iguana Donated To Biology Dept.

A Bossier resident, Hank Bailey, has donated his pet iguana to the Biological Sciences Department. The iguana, which Bailey owned since its infancy, is being kept in a cage in Science Lab 204, primarily for observation, said Dr. Laurence Hardy, assistant professor of biological sciences.

Also known as a "big lizard," the iguana inhabits all parts of tropical America, living mostly in trees. Dr. Hardy said it eats vegetables and insects, and the new pet is fed every two days. He also said donations of vegetables, such as lettuce, celery and carrots, will be happily received by the department.

The biology department has also added several white rats and snakes to its collection. The rats, used for experimental purposes, will eventually be fed to the snakes, Dr. Hardy continued.

All are members of Sigma Epsilon Chi (SEX).

Hawthorne Chosen Sponsor Secretary

Debbie Hawthorne, freshman home economics major, was recently selected as a sponsor for Delta Omicron Mu, according to Joe LeBlanc, board chairman.

LeBlanc said Debbie will handle all secretarial duties for the Dirty Old Men.

Sonia Peters, head sponsor, said the first party of the semester, a cookout, will be held at her home on U.S. 71, south of Bossier City. This will be a bring-your-own-dish affair, she said, and cooking will begin about 4 p.m., Saturday, March 13.

LeBlanc said all members and pledges interested in ordering fraternity beer mugs can do so by contacting Hoyle Rogers or Bill Monroe. Price of the 32-ounce black and gold mug is $5.

ACT Test To Be Given

All students planning to take the ACT test, to be given April 24, may sign up for it in the counselor's office, Sci. 110, immediately. The last day to register for the test is March 27, according to Col. Isaac F. Bonifay, counselor. ACT test results are helpful to counselors in aiding a student decide on his major field of study.

Col. Bonifay said mid-semester exams will be given March 22-26. Grades will be mailed to the students' parents about April 1.

Sports in Brief

By JOE LeBLANC

First things first—congratulations to SEX for taking the 1971 intramural basketball tourney. I knew it would be SEX all the way. After all, how could anyone or anything be better than SEX?

Second place finisher was Team #1. I would like to get one thing straight. The predictions that appeared in this column last issue were the apparent results of carelessness on the part of the printers. How in the world could I have even thought that The Dirty Old Men would finish first or second. SEX is absolutely the greatest! I really have to laugh every-time I think of the sight of those out of shape DOM's trying to run up and down that court.

Earl Johnson, the general manager of the Captains, (Shreveport's entry into the newly formed Dixie Association), told me recently that he is looking forward to getting as many LSU-S students as possible out to the baseball park.

Student Discount

In fact, he let me in on a little first hand information. This year, college students can gain admission to the grandstand seats for 50 cents and their ID cards.

Formerly only offered to military personnel, this special rate can be applied to the reserved and box seats. Your ID card and 75 cents gets you a reserved seat, and for $1, you can get a box seat.

Johnson said that the Captains plan to have Date Night several times during the season; on these nights, if you buy one ticket, your date gets in free. The ball park, which is located at 1700 Dove St., will be completely repainted, according to Johnson. A picnic area and beer garden will be erected along the right field foul lines.

Bowling League Formed

Hoyle Rogers, president and coordinator of the campus bowling league, said 10 teams were formed to begin play. The league consists of 4 student teams and one faculty team from LSU-S and four student teams from Centenary College.

Bill Monroe, sophomore business major, was elected vice president of the league. Monroe said the price for the evening of bowling is $1.35.

Games will be played each Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Bowlero East Lanes, 1210 Shreveport-Barksdale Highway.

It's the real thing.
